

Drag Neshaminy Creek For Body of Bather Who Left His Clothing in Bathhouse

Nothing Seen of Supposed Philadelphian After Entering Water

CAMDEN MAN DROWNED

Fatality Marked Record Breaking Day at Nearby Resort

The Neshaminy Creek, at Neshaminy Falls, is being dragged today for the body of a Philadelphia man who hired a suit at a bathhouse, went in swimming and did not return for his clothing.

The man is supposed to be A. Nuneville, of 5108 Tranville avenue, Philadelphia.

Another bather was drowned at Neshaminy yesterday. The drowned man was Joseph Russell, aged 22, of 1505 Greenwood avenue, Camden, N. J. Russell, according to the State Police, at Langhorne, who made an investigation, went into bathe and attempted to swim across the creek. He was near the Falls, where the current is strong, and it is presumed that he was either attacked with fear or suffered cramps.

The drowned man lived at 1505 Greenwood avenue, Camden, N. J., and was with a party of friends on an outing at the park over the holiday.

A man supposed to be A. Nuneville, 5108 Tranville avenue, Philadelphia, hired a bathing suit at one of the bath houses in the park. He left his clothing, watch and other effects with the bath house proprietor and that is the last that has been seen of him up until an early hour this morning.

A search was made for Nuneville but he could not be located. So it is feared that he went down in the creek and drowned.

Courier Extra Edition Meets Great Demand

Courier Service again stood the test last Saturday when it gave to the people of Bristol and vicinity the first real authentic news of the result of the Dempsey-Carpentier battle.

Without any previous announcement, except a streamer headline carried in its regular edition issued at three o'clock, over 500 extra copies of a "Fight Extra" were disposed of. There was a long stream of inquiries for more Couriers, but the plan had been to give a quick and snappy service and to give it on schedule. The Courier beat the metropolitan papers two hours with the fight news.

In the regular edition issued at three o'clock there was a good running descriptive story of the gathering of the fans and little personalities of the crowd with an up-to-the-minute picture ring. Then came the "Fight Extra" showing the principals posed in the with a large picture of the winner, the fight round by round and a big three column descriptive story.

The Courier office was besieged by a big demand for more papers and telephones were busy every minute. People from Langhorne and surrounding territory wanted papers and one man requested that he be permitted to sell the Couriers in outlying sections in an automobile.

Warm congratulations have come from all hands on the Courier's service to its readers.

Wireless Operators Get Big Fight News

Bristol Amateurs Listen to Battle Round by Round 66 Miles Away

COULD HEAR BELL RING

Owners of wireless receiving outfits were given a treat Saturday afternoon in listening to the results of the big fight by Wireless telephone.

Every punch was told by a master voice located at the ring side, and the fans who possessed a seat in the $5.50 section at the fight had nothing on the amateur wireless operator, who was listening to a ringside description of every punch with its result. The amateur in his third-story room located 66 miles away from the ring side also heard the gong ring for every round. The voice was perfect and the audibility of the signals were perfect.

The master voice at the ringside speaking was C. J. Wise, who spoke the results through a local telephone to wireless telephone outfit located at the D. L. & W station about a mile away.

The outfit belonged to the Radio Corporation of America and was operated for the National Amateur Wireless Association. All persons hear Wireless Association.

All persons hearing the voice are requested to notify the National Amateur Wireless Association 326 Broadway, New York with the number of persons listening and the audibility of the signals.

Nine Known Dead In Big Refinery Explosion

By International News Service. WHITING, Ind., July 5.—Casualties in the explosion that partly destroyed the Standard Oil Company's refinery here were expected to increase during the day, either from deaths of injured or by the finding of additional bodies. Nine are known to have died and forty two are injured ten so seriously that their recovery is doubtful.

Two of the huge steel stills used for the production of gasoline exploded and other stills in the plant caught fire. Burning oil and gas covered an area of several hundred square yards.

Damage to property is estimated at $2,000,000.

Officials today began an investigation into the cause of the explosion. The theory that a leak of gas that became ignited accidentally and the probability that excessive high pressure in one of the stills may have been the cause, are being investigated.

500 Rotarians Reach Edinburg Today

By International News Service. PARIS, July 5.—Five hundred Rotarians who attended the international convention of rotary clubs at Edinburg, arrived here today after a visit to the American battlefields and were officially welcomed with elaborate ceremonies.

During the morning a wreath was placed upon an unknown soldier's grave at the Arc de Triomphe.

Early in the afternoon President Millerand of France, officially received the visitors and extended France's formal welcome.

The balance of the day's program included a visit to the City Hall, where the visitors were greeted by city officials; a sight-seeing tour, a reception at the home of the Duchess de Vendome in Neuilly and a dinner at the Inter-Allied Club, of which Marshal Foch is president.

Most of the delegates will attend theatrical performances tonight.

Sexton's Timely Visit To Church Prevents Bad Fire

Flames started by crossed wires in a lighting fixture in the Sunday School room of the Methodist Church came near causing a serious fire Saturday afternoon.

The wires were in a combination fixture located on the partition separating the Sunday School room from the main auditorium. Gas escaping from the gas pipe in the fixture caught fire and ignited the partition. About three feet of the partition was burned.

George M. Vanzant, the sexton, fortunately happened to just then visit the building to look things over and smelled the odor of smoke. He investigated and found the fire. What prevented it from getting more headway is unknown, unless it was the lack of draft due to the building being closed.

Toney Brusaco, of Bunker Hill, was struck by lightning, but was not injured, although the bolt ripped the seams of his shoes.

Sect Admits Being Mormon, But That Doesn't Spoil Day

5,000 New Hope and Nearby Peoples Accepted Invitation to Celebration, Including Citizens Who Objected to Use of Their Names.

"Well, what if they are Mormons?" said all New Hope, yesterday as it put on its best bib and tucker and got ready to go to Deer Park, three miles outside the town, to participate in the biggest celebration of the Fourth New Hope has ever seen.

"If they're Mormons let 'em be Mormons; it aint agoin' to change the religions of this town from Methodist, Baptist, Quaker, Episcopal, Presbyterian, Catholic and all the other Christian faiths. Besides these people are giving New Hope the biggest time the town's had for years, and they aint chargin' a cent for it, nuther."

So succinctly remarked an old New Hope resident, as he prepared to join the throng which was wending its way, by automobile, by truck and by Shanks mare, to Deer Park.

The Fourth of July celebration at the Solebury Deer Park seemed, in fact, to have been made all the greater, at least in attendance, by the sensation kicked up by the charges that the religious sect camping there, and which was the host to the surrounding countryside, was of Mormon belief.

The sect, which calls itself the "Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints," admitted that it was "Mormon", but emphasized the fact that it was "Reorganized." The reorganization, it was pointed out by members, included the repudiation of polygamy and other pronounced beliefs which are said to have crept into the faith since its founding by Joseph Smith.

New Hope yesterday took the representatives of the Latter Day Saints who have become its neighbors at Deer Park at their word. By attending in droves seemed to absolve them of holding any "outrageous beliefs."

A temperature that rose to an even hundred degrees in the heat of the day did not prevent five or six thousand people from New Hope and nearby Bucks County and Lambertville and nearby New Jersey points from being the guests of the "Saints" at the celebration.

Even the committee that branded the assertion of their interest as "fraudulent," and flayed the "non-Christian" doctrines of the Deer Parkites were represented by a three-fifths attendance. Daniel B. Oblinger, Joseph D. Holcombe and Charles E. Foulke were present. The Union Paper Mill and Universal Bag Mill trucks carried people free all day.

Mr. Oblinger, who is general manager of the Union Mills, and one of New Hope's foremost citizens, said that there really was no committee in the beginning, but that, through their willingness to contribute autos, several men had been identified with the affair. He absolved the "Saints" from this unwarranted use of the names and blamed outsiders. It was to offset the denial was issued.

If the Rev. Harry Boehme, pastor of the New Hope Presbyterian Church, hoped to keep any of his or other church members away, he apparently failed. It is predicted however that he will have a record audience next Sunday evening, when he delivers his (Continued on Page 4, Col 1.)

The portion of Bucks County adjacent to Bristol was the worst sufferer by the recent drought. The central and southern part of New Jersey was also a severe sufferer. A trip Sunday by a Courier reporter revealed the farming conditions.

From Buckingham north and west corn, wheat, hay and potatoes, three crops all damaged more or less in the dry territory, showed little or no signs of injury. This is throughout the territory bounded by Doylestown, Chalfont, Montgomery, Line Lexington, Sellersville, Perkasie, Dublin and eastward to within about three miles of the Delaware river. Beyond this the damage becomes quite marked.

To a person who has traveled through South Jersey, or through parts of Mercer, Somerset and Morris counties, in New Jersey, the crops in upper Bucks and eastern Montgomery appear almost tropically luxuriant. Near Belle Mead, Somerset County, New Jersey, the drought was so bad that many of the shade trees were practically denuded of leaves, and even along the Delaware Valley most potato patches were burned a rusty brown.

Upper Bucks appears to have had more showers earlier than this section of New Jersey and not so much of the rain which has prevailed for a week past. Those who have been under the impression that the whole countryside was ruined by the dry weather should take a trip over the sections named, to receive a pleasing surprise.

Fire Company Benefit At Colonial Tonight

A real Western rodeo—relic of a picturesque, passing West—is one of the exciting features of "Penny of Top Hill Trail," the Federated feature, starring Bessie Love, which will be at the Colonial theatre tonight for the benefit of Bristol Fire Company No. 1.

The scene was filmed on a Californian ranch, and some of the best riders living took part in it. Miss Love was scheduled to ride a mustang, but her first attempt ended abruptly when she was thrown over the head of the bucking steed. A week in bed with a sprained ankle and wrenched side was the result, but then the scene was re-taken and Miss Love bestrode the same spirited horse in triumph.

Wallace's Speech

PARIS, July 5.—French newspapers today "played up" in big display the speech made yesterday by Hugh C. Wallace, the retiring American ambassador, in which the diplomat predicted that the United States would eventually enter the League of Nations.

Kids Rush Through Playground Gates

Bristol Recreation Centers Open For Season With Good Attendance

MRS. DODDS INSPECTS

Playgrounds opened here for the summer season this morning with banner attendances. At the Washington street grounds, there was an attendance of 260 today, which exceeds by 13 that of the opening day last year. At this center, Miss Jane Rogers and Miss Jessie Fine were the teachers in charge.

At the Bath street center, the attendance today numbered 190, which is five less than that of last year. The attendance on the opening day last year was 195. At this grounds the children were in charge of Miss Mabel Thompson and Miss Harriet Ancker.

The youngsters, as usual, began to assemble in the vicinity of the playgrounds long before the opening. They eagerly awaited the swinging open of the gates and dashed into the yards with a merry yell.

The swings, sand piles, sliding boards and apparatus was in place and ready for their enjoyment. They proceeded to make merry and enjoyed the pleasures and amusements of the yards to their hearts content.

During the morning Mrs. William E. Dodds, president of the Playground Association, visited the yards and saw that things got under headway.

Six Women On Kaber Jury As Trial Is Resumed

Twelve Jurors Tentatively Selected to Try Woman for Husband's Murder

HUNT MAN OF MYSTERY

"Society is Crucifying me," Cries Defendant as Trial Starts

By International News Service. CLEVELAND, O., July 5.—Twelve jurors were tentatively selected today to try Mrs. Catherine Eva Kaber, alleged husband slayer. Six women and six men were in the box within an hour after court opened.

The defense exercised the first of its peremptory challenges to eliminate one of the six women jurors—Mrs. Rosek Oliver.

William Corrigan, chief counsel for the defense announced he would eliminate every woman in the box.

The trial of Mrs. Eva Catherine Kaber, Cleveland's so-called "murder queen" was resumed today with detectives seeking the "man of mystery" in the case.

"Society is crucifying me. Women lies have got me into this" wails the woman described by Edward C. Stanton, county prosecutor as an "arch murderer comparable to Lady Macbeth and Lueretia Borgia," and according to the indictment of the state, arch conspirator in a murder plot that savors of a medieval crime with its "black magic" and hired assassins.

Who is the college professor who turned "cave man" to woo the "murder queen," gave her temporary solace in her unhappy married life with Daniel Kaber, wealthy publisher, and made her forget the love she retained for her first husband Thomas McArdle, wealthy Chicago business man?

He is the "man of mystery." The state seeks his identity to learn whether to him Mrs. Kaber confided plans for getting rid of her invalid husband, Kaber.

He is, or was, a member of the Faculty of Smith College, famous educational institution for women, according to Mrs. Mary Wade, a fortune teller, who will swear on the stand that Mrs. Kaber asked her to use "psychic vibrations" to kill Kaber, confessed to her that she never lost her love for McArdle and to her ears confided the affair with the college professor, Marjane McArdle, Mrs. Kaber's 19 year old daughter and indicted with her, attended Smith College for a year.

"It's a lie," the accused woman half shrieked today when questioned about her alleged professor lover.

She quit the nervous pacing of her cell long enough to exclaim with bitterness:

"If I were young and beautiful like Clara Smith Hamon and other women who have killed men, I would have public sympathy."

"Society is crucifying me. Lies, lies, every one lies about me. I never had a lover while I lived with Daniel Kaber. I was true to him though he made me suffer the tortures of hell."

"Another of those women lies. Women lies have got me into this. Women hate me. They are cruel. They have betrayed me. Now they want to sit on my jury so they can send me to the electric chair."

The "trial of women," the celebrated case has become known in Cleveland. Four women are in the alleged plot which resulted in Kaber's death and indicted for first degree murder; most of the witnesses on whose testimony the state relies to convict the "murder queen" are women; four women are on the tentative jury and ten more on the new venire whose examination began today.

When court opened this morning after a five days recess Mrs. Kaber's attorneys resumed their fight to secure a "womanless jury."

County Prosecutor Stanton predicted a jury would be had in a day or two.

Two of the three women whose freedom depend on the outcome of the trial invoke curses on Mrs. Kaber.

One is her own mother, Mrs. Mary Brickell the 69 year old grandmother of the three generations indicted for first degree murder.

"She is hard—she should pay" the old woman says over and over again. The other is Mrs. Erminia Colavito, fat and Italian, the "poison queen" who sold Mrs. Kaber the "magic medicine" which the state claims slowly sapped the strength of Kaber and rendered him helpless as Vittoria Pissilli hired assassin, dug into his body 24 times with a stiletto. Terrified at the thought of the death chair the "poison queen" prays the "black" eye may destroy Mrs. Kaber.

Marooned Picnickers Stay All Night on Burlington Island, Demanding a Boat

Was A Hot Fourth, But A Saner One

Mercury Played Tag With Century Mark And Bristol Suffered

WERE NO ACCIDENTS

With the mercury playing tag yesterday with the century mark and a humidity that made the atmosphere thick and oppressive, myriads of people were driven from the cities, and smaller towns in search of cool spots on which to spend the next to the last holiday of the summer season.

Thousand of these seekers after relief made Burlington Island their objective and these with the hundreds from Burlington and Bristol gave the island its banner crowd of many years. It is estimated that there must have been 8,000 excursionists on the island.

They came by the boat-loads and were from points both up and down the river. They swam and splashed in the river and played about on the sandy beach.

Then, after night-fall they danced and patronized the amusements. The rowboats and yachts were sources of attraction.

July 4th was a quiet day in Bristol. In fact, it is said that there was less noise than last Fourth which was also noted for its quietness.

No accidents occurred in this section, to mar the pleasure of the folk out for a good time. Numbers of Bristol folk enjoyed outings to various amusement parks and others visited relatives over the week-end.

The day was extremely hot in Bristol and much suffering was caused in the congested districts. The breezes which started early this morning brought welcome relief to many. Today's weather met with the entire approval of the merry-makers of yesterday, as they returned to their daily tasks, with sunburned and playweary limbs and bodies.

Claim Stillman Spent $1,000,000

By International News Service. NEW YORK, July 5.—An attempt will be made to prove that James A. Stillman, former President of the National City Bank, squandered $1,000,000 upon Mrs. "Flo" Leeds when the hearings in the ex-bankers divorce suit are renewed at Poughkeepsie on July 13 it was learned today.

Counsel for Mrs. "Fifi" Potter Stillman, the wife are planning to subpoena bank accounts and records to show that Stillman lavished money upon the former chorus girl.

Mrs. Stillman's attorneys are said to be in possession of documents to prove that the ex-banker was very generous but they wish official records to establish their claim. The expenditures, it is said, covered a period of three years and a half.

Mrs. Stillman charged her husband with being intimate with Mrs. Leeds and with being the father of Mrs. Leeds little son Jay.

Stillman is said to have purchased Mrs. Leeds great amounts of jewelry and precious gems. Also he is alleged to have created two trust funds of $300,000 for her, bought her several limousines, a New York apartment house and a cottage in Florida.

Germany Is Apathetic Over American Peace

By International News Service. BERLIN, July 5.—Germany is apathetic today over peace with America. News that President Harding had signed the congressional resolution finally ending the technical state of war between the two countries, aroused no enthusiasm. There no joy bells, no flags, no whistles, no cheering in the streets.

There was even no flag flying over the American "embassy." Ellis Loring Drezel, the United States Commissioner, ordered flags held in readiness as they could be run up when official word was received from Washington that President Harding had signed the peace resolution but up to sundown the official dispatch had not been received.

In the Reichstag lobby satisfaction was expressed over the "technical state of peace," but it was declared that no change in conditions might be expected.

LONDON July 5.—The Greek army in Asia Minor may be compelled to suspend operations against the Turkish Nationalists as the result of the destruction of the main Greek ammunition depot at Smyrna said a Central News dispatch from Smyrna today. The city was damaged and many persons were killed and wounded by the explosion.

Record Crowd Stayed so Late That Boats Could Not Carry Them

Boat Company Made Other Arrangements But People Wouldn't Accept

Between 150 and 200 people, mostly women and children, swayed by the loud protests of two men and a woman who became their self-appointed leaders, decided last night to camp all night on Burlington Island rather than "submit to the injustice," as their spokesmen termed it, of the Trenton Transportation Company, which operates the steamers stopping at the island.

When the cold, gray mist which had overspread the river and island during the night lifted this morning there were about sixty persons left of the original angry mob and when the first down-river boat docked at the island this morning at 9.40, she took aboard about a dozen survivors of the "marooned" party of last night.

The rest had faded away in the night, their angry ardor cooled by the damp night breezes from the river and the discomfort of having to sleep on park benches and on the hard floor of the dance pavilion.

The Fourth was a banner day at Burlington Island Park. It is estimated that there were close to 8,000 people on the island. Most of them came on the boats of the Trenton Transportation Company and most of them seemed to want to wait until the last minute, before departing for their homes in the sweltering cities. There was a large number of women with babies in their arms and little youngsters tagging at their skirts.

So reluctant were most of the people to leave the cool island that the early boats did not take away their share of the picnickers. The boat leaving the park wharf at 5.30 P. M. was not filled, there being plenty of room for more passengers, according to Robert Merkel, who is managing the island.

When the later boats arrived the rush for the homeward trip started in and when the Queen Ann docked at the wharf at 8.30 P. M., she was loaded to her capacity in a few moments. There were people on the wharf, however, when the captain ordered the gangplank pulled in. To protests he replied that the rules laid down by the U. S. Steamboat Inspectors would not allow him to take on any more.

The Queen Anne then steamed away, with a crowd clamoring on the wharf. The next boat, the Trenton, reached the park at 10.25 P. M., and she, too, was immediately loaded to her capacity, with a crowd of 200 or more left on the dock. Someone announced that the Trenton was the last boat for the night. This excited the crowd and the self-appointed leaders, whose (Continued on Page 4, Col. 3)

Cop Uses Club When Threatened by Crowd

A crowd of Italians are said to have attacked Policeman Kessinger last night on Jefferson avenue, near the old line of the P. R. R.

The Italians were gathered in a group, according to the police, and were told to move on by the officer. One—Mike Puchino—is said to have set his fists as if about to strike the officer, who ward off the blow by striking Puchino on the head with his club.

Then, as the crowd gathered, Kessinger went to his call box to summon aid. When he returned he found that Puchino had been taken to the Harriman hospital by his friends. The police say Puchino suffered a gash over the eye.

Inspectors' Visit Causes Flurry Among River Craft

Two U. S. inspectors swooped down on local yachtsmen yesterday and for a time caused a lot of confusion and excitement on the Delaware river. The inspectors came as far as Devlin's wharf in a large boat and then they toured around in this section in a racing yacht.

The inspectors at random picked out yachts and halted the pilots. They went aboard, examined the licenses, counted the passengers and life preservers.

On some of the boats they made a more careful examination than on others. They remained in this section until 10 o'clock last night and kept a close watch on all of the yachts.

The results of their findings will be communicated to the violators privately.

Sect Admits Being Mormon, But That Doesn't Spoil Day

widely-heralded sermon on the religious beliefs of the "Latter Day Saints."

Dr. Frederick M. Smith, head of the "Reorganized Church of Christ of the Latter Day Saints," was present yesterday, as was also Bishop Rogers, a native of Allentown, N. J. John Zimmerman, Sr., and John Zimmerman, Jr., the Philadelphia carpet manufacturers who are owners of the park were also present and so were several hundred of the followers.

Dr. Smith is a man of unusual intelligence. He has just returned from Europe and Palestine where he took some wonderful photographs, which he exhibited to several callers.

It is not denied that the Deer Parkers are Mormons, or believers in the Book of Mormon, its purported revelations. This branch of Mormons, however claim never to have been polygamous, and they decry its practice. In fact they do not countenance remarriage of divorced persons, and the members use neither tobacco nor strong drink.

This was especially noticeable yesterday, because among all the hundreds of them at the park, not a cigar, cigarette or pipe was seen, and a more orderly assemblage never gathered. None of the thousands made an unnecessary noise, aside from the cheering of the baseball games and the fireworks.

According to members of the sect, the "Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints," was originated in 1851, seven years after the death of Joseph Smith. Several officers of the church repudiated Brigham Young as "the promulgator of such false doctrines as polygamy, Adam-God worship, and the right to shed the blood of apostates."

In 1860, Joseph Smith, Jr., the eldest son of the founder of the faith, became president of the reorganized Church. Its missionary work has been prosecuted throughout the United States, Great Britain, Scandinavia, Switzerland, Australia and the Society Islands, until some 30,000 or more members have been enrolled. They seem to be generally prosperous. It is said that each one must contribute one-tenth of his or her income to the church organization.

The headquarters are at Plano, Ill. The Reorganized Church holds that the allegation that Smith introduced polygamy on the strength of divine revelation was an invention of Brigham Young. They say that the church departed grievously under Brigham Young from the faith and practices laid down in the Book of Mormon.

Joseph Smith, the son of a Vermont farmer, born at Sharon, in that state, December 23, 1805, professed to have received a revelation from an angel directing him to search for the Book of Mormon. That book of revelations was deposited on the west side of a hill about four miles from Palmyra, in the county of Ontario, and near the mail road which led to the little village of Manchester, N. Y. He was advised to go and visit it, which he did, but the prophet was not yet holy enough to obtain possession of it. At length, after due disciplinary probation, the angel of the Lord, on September 22, 1827 placed in Smith's hands the wonderful records.

They were engraved on plates nearly eight inches long by seven wide, a little thinner than common tin, and bound together by three rings running through the whole. The volume was altogether about six inches in thickness, a part of which was sealed. The characters in the unsealed part were small and beautifully engraved, and in an unknown language "Reformed Egyptian."

Along with the records was found a curious instrument called by Smith "Unim" and "Thummim," consisting of two transparent stones set in the rim of a bow fastened to a breastplate. By means of these stone spectacles, God enabled him to understand and translate the ancient records into such humble English as the prophet (who had received almost no schooling, and could read with difficulty) was master of.

The records contain the primitive history of America from the first settlement by a colony that came from the Tower of Babel at the confusion of languages, the facts on which the religious faith of the Mormons is founded. The records were the work of a prophet called Mormon, who had been commissioned by God to write an abridgement of all the prophecies, histories, etc., and to hide it in the earth until God should see fit to bring it forth, and "unite it with the Bible for the accomplishment of his purposes the last days."

This is the famous Book of Mormon. In 429 A. D., these records finally sealed up and placed where Smith found them by Moroni, one of the few survivors of the Battle of Cumorah. The Book of Mormon finally appeared before the world in 1830, with the names of Oliver Cowdrey, Martin Harris and David Whitmer appended to a statement that an Angel of God had come down from Heaven and shown them the original plates.

The celebration yesterday included baseball and other athletic features, swimming, bathing, music at the pavilion, and a costly display of fireworks in a field near Reeder station.

Only one accident happened, Miss Nan Callan, of Lambertville was rendered unconscious by being caught between the timbers of the swimming float. The float tilted over.

She was finally revived and taken to her home, with no worse injuries than painful bruises on one shoulder and ankle.

names could not be ascertained, inflamed the imaginations of the left-behind merry-makers by disclaiming against their alleged ill-treatment by the boat company.

Mr. Merkel, manager of the park, came over to Bristol and communicated with the Trenton offices of the Trenton Transportation Company. He pleaded for another boat to take the crowd home, but was informed that every boat the company had was enroute either up or down the river.

"Mr. Matlack, superintendent of the boat company, told me to pay the transportation of the people left at the island to Bristol in yachts and thence into Philadelphia by the trolley, or else send them to Philadelphia or Trenton in yachts. But the two men and a woman agitated and told the people not to leave until the boat company furnished a boat. The agitators, however, were among the first to steal away during the night."

After talking with the representatives of the boat company, Mr. Merkel returned to the park and, addressing the 200 assembled near the wharf gates told them of the offer of the boat company. But the crowd, under the persuasion of the three, remained obstinate and demanded that the company send a steamer.

They declared that they would return home by boat if they had to wait until the 9:40 this morning. Mr. Merkel again came to Bristol and arranged with M. J. Hill, of the Trenton, Bristol & Philadelphia Street Railway Company, for transportation for the entire crowd to Torresdale. Mr. Hill got into touch with the Holmesburg, Tacony & Frankford car line which got crews together and held them in readiness until two o'clock this morning awaiting the crowd. The crowd, however, remained immovable. Finally, Mr. Merkel came back to Bristol for the third time and called off the trolley arrangements, as the crowd refused to accept them.

Local yachtsmen stood by the park wharf, ready and willing to operate all night if necessary, in order to get the crowd to its destinations. As the night wore on, some of the loudest objectors began to wilt and several boat loads did get away and went to Arch street wharf. These were taken by Peter Jackson and Edward Swangler.

Mr. Merkel kept the lights burning at the park until 4:30 this morning. He threw open the big dance pavilion for sleeping quarters and says that he even gave milk to the mothers of little babes, so that the infants would have proper nourishment. Some of the obdurate ones slept on park benches, others on the ground and others stretched on the floor of the pavilion.

At five o'clock this morning, Mr. Merkel says there were still about 60 left. The others had left during the night. When the 9:40 boat this morning pulled away there were about a dozen to board her who had been at the park throughout the entire night.

During the heat of the discussion and argument last night, it was said that the crowd totaled 400 to 500 people and that hundreds of babies were among the lot. Mr. Merkel said this morning that he found one baby coach in the woods this morning.

The T. B. & P. Street Railway Company held two crews and two cars an hour or more waiting for the crowd to decide what they would do. The Holmesburg Company was prepared with cars to meet the Bristol cars at Torresdale.
